Etiquette and Pace of Play

Before we get into the specifics of the rules, let's talk about etiquette and pace of play. Etiquette is simply about being respectful of other golfers and the course. This includes things like repairing your ball marks, raking bunkers, and not talking or making noise when other players are hitting. Pace of play is also important, as it helps to keep the game moving and enjoyable for everyone. Try to keep up with the group in front of you and avoid taking unnecessary delays.

Basic Rules

- The object of the game is to hit the ball into the hole in as few strokes as possible.
- You can only hit the ball with a golf club.
- You must play the ball as it lies.
- You can only take one stroke at a time.
- You must finish the hole before you can move on to the next one.

Scoring

Your score for each hole is the number of strokes it takes you to get the ball in the hole. The player with the lowest score at the end of the round wins the game. There are a few different ways to score in golf, but the most common is stroke play. In stroke play, each player counts the number of strokes they take on each hole, and the player with the lowest total score wins.

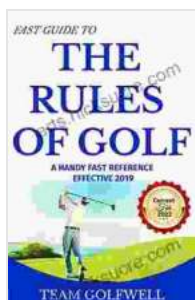

Penalties

If you break a rule, you will incur a penalty. Penalties can range from one stroke to disqualification. The most common penalties are for:

- Hitting the ball out of bounds.
- Losing the ball.
- Taking an illegal drop.

- Playing the ball from the wrong place.

These are just a few of the essential golf rules you need to know. For a more complete list of the rules, please refer to the official Rules of Golf. By following the rules, you can help to ensure that you have a fair and enjoyable round of golf.
