Classroom Instruction

The classroom instruction portion of the Ohio Driver Education Curriculum covers a variety of topics, including:

- Traffic laws and regulations
- Vehicle operation
- Defensive driving techniques
- Alcohol and drug awareness
- Distracted driving

The classroom instruction is typically taught by a certified driver education instructor. The instructor will use a variety of teaching methods, including lectures, discussions, and videos.

Behind-the-Wheel Training

The behind-the-wheel training portion of the Ohio Driver Education Curriculum is just as important as the classroom instruction. This is where you'll learn how to actually drive a car.

The behind-the-wheel training is typically conducted by a certified driver education instructor. The instructor will teach you the basic skills of driving, such as starting, stopping, turning, and backing up.

Benefits of Driver Education

There are many benefits to completing driver education. Some of the benefits include:

- You'll be a safer driver.
- You'll be more confident behind the wheel.
- You'll be more aware of the dangers of driving.

- You'll be more likely to avoid accidents.
- You'll save money on car insurance.

If you're a teenager in Ohio, I encourage you to complete a driver education course. It's one of the best ways to prepare for a lifetime of safe and responsible driving.

Requirements for Getting a Driver's License at 17

In Ohio, you can get your driver's license at age 17 if you meet the following requirements:

- You must have completed a driver education course.
- You must have held a learner's permit for at least six months.
- You must have driven at least 50 hours with a licensed driver.
- You must pass a road test.

If you meet these requirements, you can apply for your driver's license at your local BMV.
